

Skill Up: Empowering the Next Generation

Funded by Infosys Foundation

Implemented by Centum Foundation

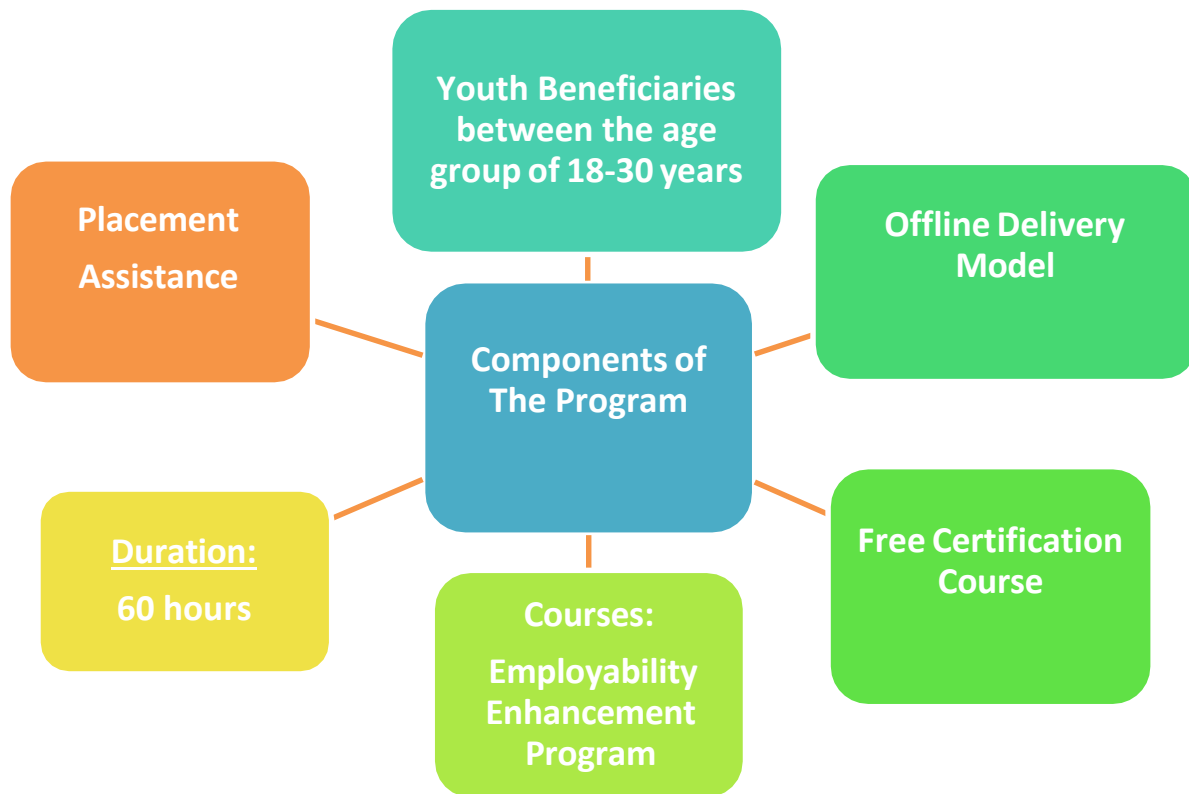

Skill Up: Empowering the Next Generation is the flagship program for youth funded by Infosys Foundation and implemented by Centum Foundation with an objective to facilitate demand driven large scale employability skill training initiative leading to financial and social development of Youth. Despite progress in recent years, youth are still underrepresented in certain industries and occupations, particularly those in STEM fields. By offering employability skills, we can help youth break into these fields and increase diversity and inclusion in the workforce. Additionally, Empowering the Next Generation plays a crucial role in preparing individuals for the workforce, driving economic growth, and promoting social inclusion and mobility. By investing in these programs, societies can create more resilient, equitable, and prosperous communities for all.

Brief about the Program

The Skill Up- Empowering the Next Generation Program, Supported by Infosys Foundation and implemented by Centum Foundation, is a skill development initiative aimed at empowering the youth of India. The program runs over two years (FY2024–2026) and focuses on delivering high-quality training in soft skills with a strong emphasis on employability of the youth. Major Components of the Program:

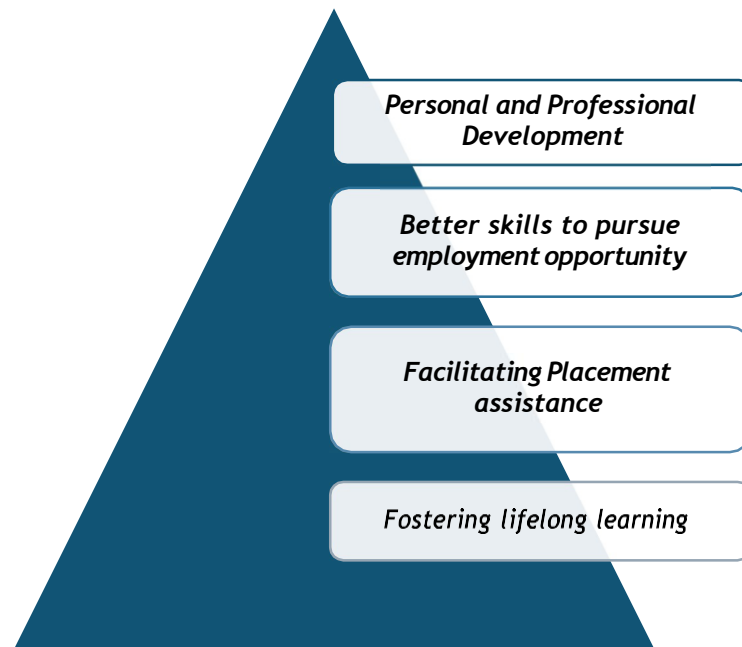

- Through this program, our focus is to enroll youth between the age group of 18-30 years and impart 60 hours of training preferably in offline mode within the college premises.
- Centum Foundation will deploy industry certified trainers to deliver the training in the most efficient and effective manner.
- The course is broadly segmented into 60 hours; however, day- wise training hours are customizable as per the need and availability of beneficiaries.
- Certification will be done for every trained candidate.
